Tuesday 29th of April

Partly cloudy. Beautiful morning, very sunny everywhere, quickly mild. Cumulus clouds move in over the higher ground before midday. They will bring areas of shade to the mountains in the afternoon and may be accompanied by brief isolated showers (mainly towards Haute-Savoie and the south of Isère). There will be fewer, more organised showers than the previous day.

Minimum temperatures between +6 and +10 degrees.

Maximum temperatures between +21 and +24 degrees.

Isotherm 0° at around 3000 metres. Light wind, predominantly thermal breezes.

Wednesday 30th of April

Summer feeling. Continuing fine weather. Beautiful morning, bright sunshine. Cumulus clouds over the mountain ranges from midday and into the afternoon, particularly towards the Pre-Alps and Haute-Savoie. The risk of a brief isolated shower seems to be confined to this department.

Minimum temperatures between +7 and +11 degrees.

Maximum temperatures between +23 and +26 degrees.

Isotherm 0° at around 3100 metres. Light wind, mainly thermal breezes.

Thursday 1st of May

Summer feeling. Fine weather, very sunny and warm in the afternoon. Even cumulus rare in the afternoon.

Minimum temperatures between +7 and +11 degrees.

Maximum temperatures between +25 and +28 degrees.

Isotherm 0° at around 3400 metres. Light south-south-westerly wind.

Friday 2nd of May

Continuation of summery, very sunny conditions. Quite warm for the time of year, with only occasional fine high cloud.

Minimum temperatures between +9 and +12 degrees and maximums reaching +26 to +29 degrees.

Saturday 3rd and Sunday 4th of May

Summer weather, very hot and largely sunny despite some high cloud on Saturday. On Sunday, instability seems to be making a comeback, with threatening cloudy spells during the course of the day which could lead to thundery showers here and there.

And for the rest: Mixed.

Reliability: Fairly good.
